RECOGNITION OF THE SOVIET URGED BY GEORGE

HELD IN BANK ROBBERY CASE, DENIES GUILT

Acting upon a tip furnished by Robert Sidebottom, chief of detectives at Nashville, a man giving the name of Coleman was arrested early today by the Decatur police and was being held in the city jail pending further information from Nashville regarding Coleman's possible knowledge of the robbery last Thursday of the Flat Top bank, near Nashville.

Coleman was picked up near the Decatur station about 2 o'clock this morning. To a Daily reporter he stoutly maintained his innocence of any connection with the bank robbery, but admitted that he was in Nashville Thursday, declaring that he came here last night on a freight train, after leaving Nashville about 7 o'clock.

He declared he was on his way to Galveston, Texas. He said he had been working on a ship plying between Galveston and New York, but had been without work for more than two months.

MORGAN COUNTY'S OWN COAL IS SOLD ON MARKET NOW; OF A GOOD QUALITY

C. M. Ryan Place Furnishing Fuel for Many Stoves in County

MINING ON LARGER SCALE IS HOPED FOR

Distribution Points Over District Are Planned by the Owners

It has been known for a long time that coal abounded in the hills of Morgan county, and crude efforts have been made from time to time to develop it. Small openings have been made at different points in the county, and quite recently the mining of it on a larger scale is being attempted in the east end of the county on the C. M. Ryan place.

This week there is being hauled by wagon to points in the county, considerable quantities of this coal, and it finds a ready market, bringing $8 per ton.

The vein is now three and a half feet thick, not many feet from the opening. It is proposed by those owning the mine to establish a sale for the coal at points in the county, and a two ton truck will be used to get it to points along the railroad. The schools of that community are using the coal, and much of the output is being consumed in the locality where it is mined.

The owner reports that a single shot developed over a ton of coal, and this may be the beginning of the development of a wagon mine that will mean much for the county.

Something over a hundred tons have been mined quite recently. Years ago when steam threshers were operating in that section of the country they would secure this coal with which to make steam, it being more easily transported from place to place.

Development of another mine in a small way has been going on at different intervals, the mine being located on the John Gandy farm, in Gandies Cove. An opening to this vein was effected to a distance of perhaps 30 feet or more, and at one time this coal was hauled to Falkville and other points in the county, the school at Falkville using it for one winter and found it very satisfactory indeed.

There are other points in the county also where outcroppings of coal are known to exist, bearing out the belief that the time is not far distant when the operation of these mines will be on a much larger scale than anything attempted in the past.

The Daily office is burning coal today in their office stove that was mined in Morgan county. A sample was furnished of sufficient quantity to test its burning qualities. It burns well, and compares favorably with coal from other sections of the state.

PETITION HEARD

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 6.—(Special)—Several citizens of Clanton today appeared before a special commissioner in support of the petition of the state for the dissolution of the injunction which prevented the public service commission from requiring the Louisville and Nashville railroad to stop its fast passenger train No. 1 at Clanton. The company contends that the enforcement of the order will retard fast schedules, but citizens of Clanton contend that they are entitled to the service. The commission's order issued last year was enjoined by the railroad without delay.

WAR REGARDED BY GREAT BRITAIN AS CANCELLATION OF ALL HER PLEDGES

In Event of Hostilities She Would Begin Building Program Again

HUGHES PROPOSALS WOULD BE NO CHECK

Frank Statement Does Much to Clear Up the Situation

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The flat announcement by a high British official that Great Britain does not regard the four-power Pacific treaty as in any way constituting offensive or defensive alliances, went far today toward clearing the conference atmosphere as the end of the two months parley have into view.

So far as Great Britain is concerned, it was announced officially, in case of attack she reserves the right to immediately increase her navy to any figure she may deem advisable and expects other powers to do the same.

It would be an act of grace, however, for a nation under such circumstances to notify the other powers.

"The naval treaty is essentially a treaty of peace, not of war," said the British official, and he cited a hypothetical case: "Suppose that Soviet Russia or some other country should build a gigantic fleet of submarines and attack British commerce. If we found it necessary we would proceed at once to construct such additional weapons as necessary to cope with the situation, regardless of the Hughes program. We would notify the other powers and proceed to construction," he said.

To sum it all up, it was stated, Great Britain regards war as an automatic release from the restrictions imposed by the Hughes program. The rapid progress of the last 24 hours lead to renewed predictions today that another ten days will see the end of the parley.

The naval committee went back into session today to tackle the last of the Root submarine resolutions which makes it an act of piracy, punishable by death, for a submarine commander to violate the rules of submarine warfare which have been agreed upon.

There is considerable opposition to this proposal. The government, itself, or the officials who gave the order should be punished, it is held. It is possible a plenary session of the conference may be called for tomorrow although the general expectation is that it will be early next week.

Schick Test Will Be Used in Morgan

Morgan county physicians yesterday approved the use of the Schick test for detection of persons susceptible to diphtheria when exposed and the use of toxin-anti-toxin for treatment of those persons. The following resolutions were passed:

RESOLVED: Be it resolved by the Morgan County Medical society that we endorse the general use of the Schick test and prophylactic use of toxin-anti-toxin in Morgan county by the health department and physicians.

Ford Wondering If Politicians Playing With Shoals' Fate

By ALLAN S. BENSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
Copyright 1922 by I. N. S.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 6.—Henry Ford begins the new year with the greatest amount of cash in banks that any human being ever had. A few years ago Russel Sage, with $10,000,000, to $15,000,000 in ready cash had this distinction. Two days ago the General Motors company announced it had in banks $41,000,000. Henry Ford's bank balance today is in excess of $121,000,000. He, himself, does not know within $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 of how much actual cash he has at the moment, because he has not taken the trouble to inquire of his son, Edsel, the treasurer, since the foregoing figures were given him a few weeks ago.

"Our balance today," said Mr. Ford, "is probably between $135,000,000 and $145,000,000."

Mr. Ford gave me this information because I asked for it. Neither his mind nor his conversation runs in money. I am sure money means less to him than to any other rich man whom I ever knew.

"All the money that comes to me goes into new industries," Ford said. "I never invest money in bonds or anything of the kind. What I want is to make this a better country for all of us to live in. That is why I want to get a chance to go to work at Muscle Shoals. I see the government is going to have a third bid for Muscle Shoals, by the way. I wonder if the politicians are playing their old game of complicating a situation for the purpose of killing a plan by delaying action upon it.

"Well, if they keep me out of Muscle Shoals, I will try to get a chance to put some dams on the Mississippi. They cannot bar me out of all the waterpower sites in the country. I am going to get in a number of places. It is to the public interest that the wasted waterpower of this country should be saved."

"Enough waterpower is going to waste to heat, cook and furnish light for all the people in this country, but I don't want Muscle Shoals or any big waterpower site for the purpose of owning it. If I get Muscle Shoals I shall contrive a plan by which it will eventually become the property of the government without cost and serve the people forever, while bringing profit to the government."

ALMON DECLINES TO GRANT PETITION OF F. W. SEAY'S MOTHER

(International News Service)
FLORENCE, Ala., Jan. 6.—Judge Charles P. Almon, who was Thursday petitioned by Mrs. M. Seay to appoint a commission to inquire into the sanity of her son, F. W. Seay, who was convicted and sentenced to hang for the murder of his wife, Myrtle Seay, declined to entertain her petition Thursday.

Judge Almon stated Friday "that there was no more evidence of Seay's insanity now than there was at the time of, and prior to his trial for the murder of his wife and that evidence both as to his sanity and insanity was submitted to a most intelligent jury and the jury decided he was sane and responsible."

2 Killed, 2 Hurt as Auto Wrecks

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 6.—Willie T. Nichols, ex-service man, and Ernest G. Cameron, of Hunter's station, Montgomery county, were killed instantly and Roscoe Spencer and J. M. Barganicy, of Montgomery, were injured when an automobile in which they were riding went off a deep embankment on the Prattville-Montgomery highway early this morning.

The body of Cameron remained at the morgue unidentified for several hours. After the accident, Spencer, who was driving the car, walked back to the intermediate air depot where he called for aid from Montgomery. The men had been opossum hunting and were returning Cameron to his home at Hunter's station when the automobile went over the embankment.

PROPOSE INCREASE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 6.—(Special)—An increase of 50 cents in the price of a Pullman ticket from Birmingham to Mobile by way of the Louisville and Nashville railroad was proposed to the public service commission today in a petition received from H. P. Clements, general passenger agent of the Pullman company. The commission set the petition for hearing January 13 and notified the cities affected.

De Valera Quits Sinn Fein Post; to Ratify Treaty

(International News Service)
DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Eamonn De Valera this afternoon resigned as president of the Irish republic and as executive of the Sinn Fein.

The Sinn Fein cabinet resigned with De Valera. The resignations are believed to mark the collapse of serious opposition to the Irish peace treaty in Dail Eireann.

A new cabinet will be formed at once. It probably will be headed by Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein, and with Michael Collins, chief leader of the faction supporting the Irish peace treaty.

FOREMEN ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The International Association of Railroad Supervisory Foremen held a business meeting on Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. and the following officers were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year: D. C. Vohlers, president; W. E. Perie, vice president; L. W. Lee, secretary-treasurer; C. A. Dunnivant, F. M. Schilcer and L. J. Rogers, trustees.

After several good talks, Master Mechanic C. W. Mathews was invited in and made a very interesting talk, after which all retired in a body to the Palace Cafe, where J. O. Richardson had a very delicious oyster supper waiting.

The following were guests of the foremen at supper: Messrs. C. W. Mathews, W. C. Nollau, and C. H. Meyers of Oklahoma. Those present were: C. V. Dupont, Ike Sheer; Ike Rogers, Will Perie, C. A. Hitch, H. S. Roberts, D. C. Vohlers, Wiley Owens, C. A. Dunnivant, L. W. Lee, Tom Cox, J. O. Richardson, F. M. Schilcer, Jim Hoseapple, Mr. Wilder, Marrett Moore, John Moore, Wiley Robinson and others. J. O. Richardson won the prize at eating oysters, but some say F. M. Schilcer was a close second. All agreed that this was the most enjoyable meeting ever held by the organization and it was voted an all round good time.

MOBILE BAPTISTS ARE PREPARING FOR BIG MEETING

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6.—The Baptist churches of the city are being aided by other denominations and all civic bodies of Mobile in their preparations for the entertainment of the first Southwide convention of organized Bible classes ever held, that will meet in this city February 7, 8 and 9. An attendance of 2,000 is expected and the new Scottish Rite cathedral is being rushed to completion in order to furnish an adequate meeting place for the convention. Special delegations are being organized in all of the states of the Southern Baptist convention. A transportation manager has been named for each state. Reduced rates have been granted by the railroads and it is expected that one or more special trains will be run into the city for the accommodation of the delegates.

The immediate aim of the convention is to secure the services of the organized Bible classes in a fuller enlistment of all Southern Baptist forces, according to Harry L. Strickland, secretary of the organized class department of the Baptist Sunday School Board, who is promoting it. An effort will be made to enlist at least 500,000 Southern Baptists in the task of winning at least one soul to Christ during 1922, and to secure co-operation of the remaining 2,500,000 Southern Baptists in some other definite form of Christian service in their local churches.

Another result of the convention is expected to be the conduct of a Southwide Baptist survey next fall in which an effort will be made to reach the thousands of unchurched and unidentified Baptists of every community in the South and discover the evangelistic opportunities confronting Baptists among the unsaved.

Every phase of the work of the organized Bible class will be discussed in addresses and round-table conferences by experts from the various southern states, while some of the noted speakers who have accepted invitations to bring special messages are William Jennings Bryan, Roger W. Babson, the noted statistician and business expert, John D. Sage, president of the Central Union Life Insurance company, and Dr. W. S. Abernathy, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Washington, attended by President Harding and Secretary Hughes. Secretary of Labor J. S. Davis has tentatively accepted an invitation to deliver an address.

JAIL EMPTY

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 6.—The Cherokee county jail here is empty today, following a complete jail delivery during the night in which 8 prisoners made their way to liberty after sawing through the bars. Two of the men were awaiting trial on charges of murder.

CANNOT DEAL WITH ONLY ONE CLASS OF ASSASSINS AND NOT DEAL WITH ANOTHER

British Premier Discusses Russia's Status Before Supreme Council

AMERICAN POLICY ON EUROPE IS OUTLINED

United States Not Willing to be Made the Burden Bearer

(International News Service)
CANNES, France, Jan. 6.—The inter-allied supreme council today approved the calling of a five-power economic conference to plan the reconstruction of Europe. Recognition of the Russian Soviet government by the allies was urged by Premier Lloyd George in a speech before the council today.

In emphasizing the necessity of recognizing the Moscow regime, Premier George declared that the allies "cannot deal with one group of assassins in the near east and refuse to deal with another."

Russia will be invited to participate but it is learned that Moscow will be asked first to recognize the Russian foreign debt and agree to respect private property rights. "There will be much more danger of Bolshevism if the allies fail to revive Europe than in propaganda from Russia."

"Cessation of Russian propaganda in the east must be a condition for any agreement with Russia," Lloyd George said.

The policy of the United States toward the reconstruction of Europe was described by an administration spokesman today as "willingness to co-operate but no commitments by which the United States can be made burden bearer for Europe's economic ill."

GOVERNMENT SELLS NITRATE AT PLANT 2

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The war department announced today that approximately 3,247,000 pounds of ammonium nitrate now held by the ordnance department and located at the United States nitrate plant Number 2 at Muscle Shoals, Ala., will be offered for sale to the public in lots of 100,000 pounds or more by sealed bids.

The bids will be received by the Philadelphia district ordnance salvage board at noon on January 23. It was stated that the government can give no guarantee as to analysis or condition of the material. This nitrate has been in storage for about three years and there are approximately 1,495,000 tons packed in 12,000 barrels, of which 85 per cent of the containers are in good condition and 15 per cent will require coaling. The remaining 128 tons is in bulk.

Men to Conduct Sunday Service

Men of the church will conduct a special service at 5 o'clock Sunday at the Westminster Presbyterian church. Music will be rendered by a male quartette and male orchestra, while speakers will be chosen from men of the congregation. The service will be held to stimulate interest in church activities during the current year.

Meyers Visitor to His Old Home Town

MEN OF CHURCH ARE HOSTS AT BANQUET

The dinner given last night by the men of the Convention Bible class to the women of the Fidelity class and the F. E. L. class was a most enjoyable occasion.

A spirited contest for membership had just ended, and the women as usual defeated the men, and this was the real occasion of this happy mingling.

Rev. W. P. Wilks, pastor of the Central Baptist church, was toastmaster, and in his own inimitable way, discharged those duties in a most charming manner.

The Convention Bible class was represented by J. P. Matlock, president; William R. Spight, teacher; Fidelis class, Mrs. Graves Petrey, president; Mrs. Seneca Burr, teacher; F. E. L. class, Mrs. Dillehay, president; J. W. Gibson, teacher. Mr. Matlock retires from the presidency of the Convention Bible class, after a period of progressive service, and John L. Nelson is the new president.

The dinner was served by the East Ward school league, and was a good one from every point of view. About 175 partook of this gracious hospitality, among the number were several ladies and gentlemen from Hartselle.

Charming music was rendered and greatly enjoyed by all. Several addresses were made in a most befitting manner faithfully portraying the spirit of the occasion, and not the least by any means was the selected readings that were given in a most artistic manner. All of the features were good, and everything fine, was the consensus of opinion as voiced by all present.

The dinner was given in the Albany chamber of commerce rooms, and will be remembered as one of the most pleasant ever participated in on an occasion of this character.

ARE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE GUILTY?

The official record of the disarmament conference shows nothing accomplished since December 22. For half a month discord has reigned. Just at this time the trouble is between England and France. The air of the peace conference is poisoned through and through with distrust, if not actual hatred. America, the friend of both France and England, stands helpless, to compose the difficulties.

All this impotence is traceable to some cause. That cause is found in the venomous hatred of certain American Senators, who refused Mr. Wilson's plea that America sanction a defensive alliance between England and France. Such an alliance seems now out of the question as from latest reports England is unwilling at present to enter any such agreement with France. If the Senate had done its duty in 1919 and stood squarely by America's allies, instead of miserably deserting them, and making a separate peace with a common enemy, France would not now feel as though she was left to herself. And she would never have been so sensitive had she not been treated as she was three years ago and ever since.

France feels as if she is bearing the whole responsibility of keeping the Germans in their place and that as she is closest to the danger, and hence should receive special consideration.

Instead that country has been made to feel, that not only will America fail to help her, but that this nation has joined with England in an effort to strip her of the ships and arms necessary to her defense. France is being asked to disarm by nations who refuse and have refused time and again to pledge a single dollar, a single soldier or a single gun for her defense in case of attack. If France has an injured air, who is to blame?

France is being severely criticized for wishing to hold on to her army, and to as many submarines as possible and there may be some question as to her justification for so doing, but one thing is absolutely sure, that if the American Senate had ratified the Anglo-French treaty as urged by Woodrow Wilson, the French would now certainly have no ground for refusing to disarm. With a guarantee from England and America to come to her aid in case the Germans ever attacked again, she could have well afforded to have done away with her army and navy. It remains for the fact to be brought out also, that England did ratify the treaty just as the French wished and just as Mr. Wilson urged, to leave no doubt as to who is to blame for present conditions as they exist between France and England—upon the shoulders of those Senators who through hatred turned down the proposals of Mr. Wilson, must the blame finally rest. Those poison filled haters of Wilson, may not have known it at the time, but they can now see where they have brought infinite trouble upon the world. We may say such questions do not interest us; fifty years ago they might not, but today in a business way and in every sense, we feel the effects of the present disagreement between the two most important countries of Europe. The restoration of trade between America and Europe can never take place until suitable guarantees are given France, by this country and England—just such as Mr. Wilson and his Democratic colleagues demanded. If the American people take no steps to right the wrongs allowed in 1919, the blame now borne by Republican Senators must pass to their shoulders. The refusal of our government to close up the gaps of the great war, with proper consideration for the future welfare of the world, may seem an inconsiderable matter to some, but just as no individual can forsake duty at a critical time without suffering bitter regrets, neither can a nation, even if it be the great Republic of the Western Hemisphere, for sake its world responsibilities with impunity.

RELIGIONISTS IN GREAT CHICAGO
GATHERING SEEM TO FAVOR LEAGUE

Although, its name is not called, the Wilsonian league of nations, seems to have been adopted by last week's convention of the federated churches of America held in the city of Chicago. The following reference to "a peace system" endorsed by the gathering strongly indicates the League of Nations plan:

We believe that there is one way, and only one way, to outlaw war. We must first establish a peace system. To take the place of competitive war preparations and recurring wars we must create the institutions and the agencies of peace. Methods must be found by which to secure full security, equal justice and fair economic opportunity for all nations and all peoples alike. "We reject with indignation the policy of taking all possible economic advantages in all parts of the world while shirking international responsibilities and obligations."

Another reference can easily be construed as an endorsement of the American-English-French treaty, which guaranteed that in case France was attacked, she should be duly protected:

We believe that the United States has moral obligations to the nations of Europe. Neither France nor any other nation should ever be exposed to the wrong and the tragedy of invasion. We believe that adequate protection can be given to the nations only by effective international guarantees.

The following ten suggestions, sent down to individual churches, indicates that the Chicago conference, goes a great deal further into the matter of international justice, than has the disarmament conference at Washington, at least up to the present:

1. We believe that nations no less than individuals are subject to God's immutable moral laws.
2. We believe that nations achieve true welfare, greatness and honor only through just dealing and unselfish service.
3. We believe that nations that regard themselves as Christian have special international obligations.
4. We believe that the spirit of Christmas brotherliness can remove every unjust barrier of trade, color, creed and race.
5. We believe that Christian patriotism demands the practice of good will between nations.
6. We believe that international policies should secure equal justice for all races.
7. We believe that all nations should associate themselves permanently for the world peace and good-will.
8. We believe in international law and in the universal use of international courts of justice and boards of arbitration.
9. We believe in a sweeping reduction of armaments by all nations.
10. We believe in a warless world and dictate ourselves to its achievements.

GOOD ROADS

The idea of good roads reaches far out into the distant past, and the first beginning was made when the first settlers planted foot on this new world. With the crude implements at hand they blazed the way through the forest's of that uncharted country, and from that time on civilization has been using its efforts, and his efforts is expressed in the many hundreds of miles of finely constructed highways than penetrate to every portion of this great Republic. As the country became populated its citizens early realized that the value of good roads helped to develop their country as much as any other feature of their effort. They early realized that all that is best for a country goes hand in glove with well constructed highways, the land becomes improved, school interests improve, church facilities are favored, and these are the strong links that forged the chain of road construction that has possessed a nation, and must continue until every trail that is passable becomes a thoroughfare for the passage of the growing business of a Republic that is yet in its infancy.

The present agitation for better roads in this state is but the struggle for better conveniences, better modes of travel, better things that tend to make a happy and contented people. We are advancing, and an advancing army refuses to retreat. This country neither needs or wants any trenches, but a broad plain, beyond which is the great dawn of the rising sun of prosperity, progress and happiness. This country is not alone seeking commercial success, but a great deal more.

94TH YEAR OF SERVICE

This is the first issue of the Moulton Advertiser for the year 1922.

We have turned to the great pile of costly, clean white paper to start the new volume.

For 93 years the Advertiser has been making its appearance every week, carrying the history of the every day life of the town into the homes of the people who still dwell in the town or have gone out into the broader fields.

What songs of gladness, what dirges of grief buried in that pile of completed files as year by year it has grown! It may seem a simple thing to keep this record.

At times you have tossed the paper aside with the comment, "there's nothing in it." But always there has been something in it that interested some one. The two-line notice of the arrival of a baby meant nothing to you, but, oh, it meant much to someone. A few lines briefly mentioning the death of some mother's child may not have touched you but it cast a shadow over a heart that has never been lifted. You may have felt no throb of pride in the lines telling that some boy was making good in a distant city, but somebody cut out the item and laid it away between the pages of the family Bible. Here is the clipping of a wedding in the dear, dead days beyond recall, now yellow with the years, but tenderly kept in the little box of relics that was found after mother had been laid away.

Don't tell us that the old volumes of the Moulton Advertiser do not contain a wealth of memories still held sacred in silent hearts.

Don't tell us that the editor of a country weekly does not fill a place in the world's work.

So, today we write "the beginning" of the story of 1922, the opening lines in this book of fifty-two chapters. What a wonderful glorious year it will be! What a sad, old wearying year it will be! What a glad, rich, happy year it will be!

Great opportunity lies in this pile of clean, white, costly paper.

It is up to us, friends, and when we write the end of the volume, we hope it may be a volume of wonderful progress for you.—Moulton Advertiser.

There will be elections in Alabama this year. A Governor, a United States Senator, a member of the legislature, heads of many State departments, members of the higher courts and many county officers.

Will you be prepared to cast your ballot for these? Certainly not if you have failed to pay poll tax for last year. The payment of the poll tax is a most important duty, safeguarded solely by the act of the one who would vote. The matter is just this if you have, you can, if you have not, you cannot, and that settles it.

Better see about it before February 1st, after that date you cannot pay until next year; twelve months off, a long time.

A tone of optimism, not of the run-away kind, but a feeling that business was going to be good, was expressed by a business man of this city to a reporter of the Daily today. This feeling is gaining ground, and there may yet be seen a period of genuine, regular business that will come without and spurts, and continue all the way.

The merchants show-windows are a good index to what they are doing, and these, taken as a whole in the Twin Cities, compares favorably with others in any section of the country.

Mr. W. R. Shelton
My dear Editor:—

Do you ever read the Birmingham Age-Herald? If so, have you noticed what a wonderful place Birmingham is? It is Birmingham! Birmingham! Birmingham! Birmingham morning, noon and night. Sundays extras and special editions! Birmingham before all, after all and forever, Amen!

Nothing can take place between the two oceans, nor from the top of frozen Alaska to the bottom of the Panama canal but it is for the benefit of and for the glory of Birmingham.

Now that the development of Muscle Shoals has come within realm of the possible, the Age-Herald has transported the Shoals, Wilson Dam, Dam Two, Dam Three, Dam One and the whole outfit to Birmingham! Henry will buy the two streaks of rust between Sheffield and Birmingham so that he will be able to ship his products to Detroit, or Kalamazoo, or Tim-buc-too, via Birmingham and the Warrior river, and at the same time take along enough water to float a flat bottom scow in the Warrior. Henry will also buy up all the railroads running into Birmingham and store them there ready for future use.

Not long ago the Age-Herald announced that "18th street, Birmingham, had become as well known as Broadway, N. Y." Poor little old New York will soon be swallowed up by Birmingham, and Broadway will be known no more, unless the Age-Herald mentions it as being on 18th street of Birmingham, Ala.

Not long ago the Age-Herald discovered that Washington was not the proper place for the postoffice department, so it was transported to Birmingham and thereby relieves the government of that much trouble and worry.

The Age-Herald discovered that the freight on steel from Birmingham to Denver was $2.50 more than the cost in Birmingham. The freight was too much, of course, but the Age-Herald soon figured out. Denver being a suburb of Birmingham and the Panama canal in the Birmingham district, steel could be delivered in Denver for $2.50 per car switching charge.

Quite recently they annexed China and Japan to Birmingham and thereby reduced the freight on iron and steel, via the Warrior to China and Japan.

Birmingham sent a delegation over to Atlanta and brought back a knitting mill. There must be something wrong about that or they would have brought back the whole of Georgia.

"For the good of the community" had to stop the enumeration of what Birmingham had done for the "want of space." If the Age-Herald is enlarged, the whole earth will be taken into Birmingham. What the Age-Herald cannot do for Birmingham the good Lord need not try.

However, laying aside all joking, the Age-Herald is the best paper for its own town I have ever seen and is to be commended for the space and energy devoted to the building up of Birmingham and the surrounding country. If one issue of the Age-Herald should appear without a boost for Birmingham, Ned Brace and Frank Willis Barnett would throw a pair of fts that would require a bond issue to repair the damage.

Now, Mr. Editor, it has occurred to me that you, with The Albany-Decatur Daily, might do something for the salvation of North Alabama and the Tennessee Valley. Could you not, by much advertising, save some of the water in the Tennessee river, a piece of a dam, a lock of Ford's hair (if he has any), a few mussels and a piece of Shoal as souvenirs that Florence, Sheffield and the Tennessee Valley did exist before they were taken in by Birmingham?

The Albany-Decatur Daily is a good live paper and does much for this community, but it could do more. The effect would not only bring returns in the way of good will of all the people but also in dollars.

If every paper in the state would push for its home town, in proportion, as the Age-Herald does for Birmingham, Alabama would be placed on the map of every state in the Union.

With best wishes for the New Year

I am,
Yours truly,
E. C. PAYNE.

COTTON LEADER
VERY MUCH ALIVE

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 6.—John S.
Wannamaker, former president of the American Cotton Association told the International News Service via telephone from his home in St. Matthews, S. C., today that he believed cotton speculators were responsible for setting in motion reports that he had died in Miami, Fla. He confirmed news of the death of his uncle, W. W.
Wannamaker. Mr. Wannamaker declared strong efforts had been made to bring into disrepute the meeting of farmers called by the President and the Secretary of Agriculture. Reports had been circulated, he said, that he had declared he would not attend this meeting unless W. W. G.

Harding is relieved of his duty as head of the federal reserve board.

This, he declared, is absolutely untrue.
"I have promised to attend this meeting and I intend to do it. I have said nothing about Mr. Harding," Wannamaker said.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6.—When W. W.
Wannamaker died here today, his death started a chain of reports which, when they reached the outside world, confused his name with that of John Wannamaker, Philadelphia

What "Mental Massage" Does to Help Keep Beauty Fresh

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

If your mind is brooding over worries, or you are indulging in bad temper, you cannot expect your face will reflect beauty of soul. At the same time physical massage will assist little if underneath your pench-
anted complexion
wrinkles of discontent are forming.
It is a well-known fact that the great secret of the success of much of the present day mental treatment results from the mental tranquility which is demanded of the followers of these cults. The ancient seer who declared that in "quietness and confidence shall be your strength" really anticipated the needs of the present day.
If you would retain your beauty despite all the worrying conditions under which you may live, you should strive to have a quiet mind. Never make the mistake of going to bed at night with your mind full of worry thoughts. Forget them. The best way to accomplish this is to fill your mind with pleasant thoughts. If your environment is such that disagreeable thoughts are suggested at every turn, try to transport yourself mentally to another realm before you seek the night's repose.
Get books which depict life under different conditions or in another land, even if it be a kingdom of romance.
Forget the drudgery of the day in the pursuit of some dream of enchantment, then when your head seeks your pillow your mind will still be following the adventures of your imaginary companions, and instead of drooping lines about your mouth, or a worried look in your eyes you will have smiling lips and sparkling eyes when you retire.

Of course, while this mental massage is transforming your outlook on life you should also do a little physical work, which will undoubtedly prove helpful.
Get a good cold cream, and with a little on the tips of your fingers pass them lightly up the bridge of your nose and to the left and right of your forehead.
Then place your thumbs on your cheek-bones and draw your cream-soaked finger-tips from your chin upward to your cheek bones.

You need not devote a great deal of time to this treatment. A few moments of massage every evening will do more for your face than an occasional long-drawn-out treatment.

If you will adopt the suggestions for mental massage you will find that the worries which seemed insupportable will gradually assume less formidable proportions. Try to concentrate on some especially pleasant thought, whether it be about the characters of whom you have been reading or some happy incident in your own life. You will find that when you awake in the morning your viewpoint will be changed for the better.

Then, too, the soothing touch of the tips of the fingers will help to recapture
the fleeting kirkish contours of your face.
Try to follow these suggestions, and you will discover that a little massage regularly applied, tranquility of mind, especially when your affairs seem at a crucial point, and thoughts of kindness will lend to your countenance a lovely-ness that even old age cannot discount.

Valier's Dainty Flour

Never a failure with Dainty

IT'S a pleasure to bake with Valier's Dainty these days when so much flour is sorry. It never causes a failure. And the reason's not hard to find.

Dainty is milled from the creamy white hearts of the finest soft winter wheat. Not a bit of the poor wheat that's coming to market now goes into Dainty Flour.

Most wheat is poor now because the crop was injured by a freeze in the spring and wet by showers during the late harvest. Stored damp, lots of it got weevily and musty. But the wheat that goes into Dainty is fine, prime wheat bought early in the harvest and stored safely in the big, modern elevators beside the Dainty mills before the showers began. It's the finest of fine wheat.

Every bushel cost a big premium, for such wheat is mighty scarce. That's why Dainty costs a little more per sack than ordinary flour milled from the run of the crop. But isn't it more than worth it?

You can be proud of the baking you do with Dainty. It is always fine-textured, full-flavored, delicious. And you'll never have a failure!

Ask your grocer for a sack—it costs much less than it did last year.

Gorgeous Colors and Rich Fabrics "Make" These Gowns
By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

Great richness and beauty of fabric and trimming are characteristic of the new boudoir gowns. Many wonderful embroideries appear upon them, while, far often enhances their loveliness. On models which are unadorned by contrasting decorations, a delightful draping of the fabrics from which they are fashioned is often revealed.

The model at the left is designed on extremely simple lines, which are pleasantly emphasized in the beautiful red chiffon velvet from which this creation is evolved. A cowl collar taps the gown, and its hem is enriched with a deep border of kolinsky fur.

In the place of sleeves are two long panels, which fall free from the shoulders. These pieces are also bordered with kolinsky fur and lined with cloth of silver. About the waistline is a metal girdle with jeweled ornaments in the front.

Black satin is chosen for the boudoir gown at the right. It shows the low-waisted style now so much in vogue. The armholes are defined by rippled draperies of the satin.

The front of this gown is overlaid by a panel of Chinese embroidery, in which the reds and yellows of the Orient are interestingly used. Below this is a decoration of fringe which is designed to add the appearance of greater height to the wearer. Narrow fringe borders the hem.

Kolinsky Trims This Red Chiffon Velvet Gown. This Black Satin Gown.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.
An impressive installation service was held at the First Methodist church Monday afternoon, when officers for the new year were installed. The pastor, Rev. G. M. Davenport, was in charge of the service, and after reading several selections from the Scriptures, the following officers were called to the altar and installed: Messdames W. A. Brown, president; S. D. Johnson, vice president; H. A. Nungester, corresponding secretary; G. D. Williamson, recording secretary; W. H. Ritter, supt. Young Peoples; Carter, supt. Juniors; Phillip Humphrey, supt. supplies; W. P. McGlawn, supt. study and publicity; A. J. Harris, supt. local work; Frank Brown, local treasurer; Hamlet, agent Missionary Voice.

Mrs. W. P. McGlawn, Publicity Agent.

The Y. P. M. S. met Wednesday with Mrs. Robert Sittason. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ollie Schrickel. The Bible reading was taken from Matthew. The roll was called and dues paid, old and new business was discussed and plans for the new year were made, after which a social hour followed and delicious refreshments served.

King of Signboard.
Probably the most elaborate signboard ever exhibited was that of the White Hart at Scle, Norfolk. S. Thomas Browne, in 1663, described it as the "noblest signpost in England about and upon which are carved great many stories as of Charbon and Cerberus, Actaeon and Diana, and many others." This king of signboards was erected in 1655, and it said to have cost over £1,000. It was in existence up till the end of the eighteenth century, and possibly may still be preserved somewhere or other.—London Chronicle.

Musical Gifts of Boys and Girls.
The higher musical endowments in male children are shown plainly in vocal and piano classes, where it seems inevitable that the most expert and brightest students are boys. For every musical girl, there appears to be five boys equally gifted. They have naturally a better idea of harmony and instinctively grasp musical values, which, in the majority of cases, become understood by their feminine rivals only by dint of hard study.—Exchange.

WINIFRED BLACK Writes About Mary Who Would Be Happy

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

MARY CARY'S run away.

Poor Mary Cary!

Mrs. John W. Cary is furious—she's horrified and she is amazed.

Her daughter—her Mary—idolized, petted, spoiled, dressed like a doll, sent to the finest finishing school in the country, brought into society with a grand debutante party where there were more flowers and more young men and more old men, and more chaperones and louder music and more jazz, than at any other debutante party for a generation.

And Mary had a chance to meet all the best men, young Reggie So-and-So, for instance, the heir to millions.

Reggie's a good deal of a fool—to be sure—but think of his money! And there were a few days when he fairly hung around Mary Cary, night and day.

Then there was Archie—Archie hasn't much money, but think of his mother's social position! And there was Freddie—Freddie's a pretty gay boy—drinks a bit, don't you know. He'll settle down by and by—perhaps.

And best of all, there was young Mr. Oldman, the divorced fascinator. Rich, belongs to the best clubs, clever, too, when he wants to be, and the rage—my dear, the regular rage and nothing less!

Of course, he's had two wives, one of them committed suicide and the other is living somewhere in the Middle West with her parents. She has the children, so there wouldn't be any bother about them.

Away Mary Flew!

But do you suppose Mary Cary would even look at young Mr. Oldman? No, not if you nagged her morn, noon and night. And when he insisted on giving the box party for her, with the supper afterwards at his bachelor apartments, she pretended she had a headache and said she didn't want to go.

She went, of course. Mrs. John W. Cary insisted on that—but she just sat and moped all evening, and when Mr. Oldman's friends, one or two of them, took a little too much champagne—oh, he has a cellar, my dear, with everything of the very best and plenty of it!—Mary Cary didn't try to hide her feelings at all, but looked openly shocked.

And she insisted on going home early—it wasn't a minute after one o'clock when the Carys had to leave—and now, she's run away.

With a poor young man, whom she met that time she visited her room-mate from boarding school.

Not a dollar, my dear—not a single dollar, except of course a ridiculous little home he's built on the river bank of some absurd river or other.

And they never see anyone or give parties or know a soul, and Mary Cary pretends to be perfectly happy.

Exactly Like Father

Of course, she isn't—she can't be—even if she doesn't care for jazz and supper parties, and actors and things.

Give her a year and she'll be bored to death and come creeping back home—and then Mrs. Cary will have all the introducing and fussing and worrying to do over again.

No wonder she's furious.

John W. Cary? Oh, he's hopeless—he's just come back from a visit to Mary and what do you think he says?

He says he envies her; and as for her husband—he wonders if he knows how lucky he is.

A little house with a pergola and hollyhocks and roses, and vines and a thatched roof and lilacs at each end of the pergola, white at one end and purple at the other. And her husband coming home at night tired and happy—and then dinner in the pleasant living-room right by the fireplace.

Sometimes when it's stormy, and the wind is blowing in the trees, Mary Cary and her brand-new husband have dinner right by the wide window where they can look out and see the storm.

John W. says Mary Cary has more sense than anyone else in the Cary family, and some day he's going out and build a house right next to hers and her husband's and live there in peace and comfort and quiet.

No wonder Mary Cary is queer.

She's exactly like her father.

Mrs. John W. Cary says so—and she ought to know.

BUSINESS MEN GIVE REASON OF SUPPORT FOR THE BOND ISSUE

I am for good roads as strong as I can make it. They are one of the greatest assets of which any county or state can boast.

I know the proposed bond issue will not raise my taxes, but, if it should, I would be perfectly willing to pay it.

H. R. SPEAKE,

Speake, Echols and Speake.

The good roads bond election to be voted on January 30th is one of the most important questions up for consideration, and I cannot but feel that it will carry overwhelmingly. To not carry would be a great step backward, and one we cannot, under any consideration, afford to make.

J. C. WHITE

Cashier, Tenn. Valley Bank.

I have recently returned from Asheville, N. C., and while I have always been a good roads enthusiast, am more so now than formerly, after riding over the magnificent roads of that state. For instance: A friend of mine left Asheville at 8 o'clock and was at home in time for supper, making the distance of 300 miles in a Packard car with all ease. Put me down strong for good roads, and the bond issue is the way to get them while we can get government funds with which to help construct them.

H. H. HUNTER,

Schimmel and Hunter.

Very anxious indeed to see the measure carry, and feel that it would be a great benefit to every section of our county and state. Certainly at this time it is opportune, and to lose this chance would be a great calamity.

The expense is to be borne by the automobile tax, and there is every argument in favor of it, and not one against it.

J. H. CALVIN

Calvin Wholesale Grocery Co.

For the good roads bond issue, certainly. Let our motto be: Full steam ahead, and back of this motto is the solid foundation of progress, with safety and conservation. Our county at this time is enthusiastic and has a vision, and it must not deceive itself. Today it faces the future not by standing still, but by looking up and marching on. We should not alone seek commercial success, but a great deal more. We should seek civic beauty, and the best fields for the joy of living, the inspiration of helpfulness, the enthusiasm of an unselfish public service, and an unbounded and ever-increasing devotion to the public welfare. Let us put the issue over, and do it now.

CRISIS HALTED

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 6.—The crisis of the Republican party of Pennsylvania, created by the death of Senator Penrose, and the necessity for selecting a successor has been halted until Monday when Governor Sproul announced who will succeed the dead political leader in the senate. Beneath the surface, however, the situation is seething with the launching of booms for as many candidates as can be found willing to be known as possibilities.

WARRANTS MAILED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 6.—(Special)—Announcement was made by the state treasury today that warrants covering salaries of public school teachers for December are now being mailed out and may be cashed by the treasurers of school funds without delay. Previous notice had been that the warrants would not be paid until January 15 but remittances to the state treasury have been such as to provide for the immediate payment of the warrants.

NO OLD WOMEN NOWADAYS

Modern dress, hair dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive in appearance. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep, the figure stoops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down does she really look her age.

Every woman owes it to herself and her family to keep herself young in appearance, and happy. When headaches, backache or "the blues" develop or when a woman reaches the trying age from forty-five to fifty, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to keep her in health as it has so many other women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper.

TOOK GRIT TO STAY ON BEAT

Popular Policeman of Covington Ky., Gives Facts of Trying Experience

"I got more good out of the hit money I paid for Tanlac than any ever spent in my life," said Frank Hebbler, member of this police force of Covington, Ky.:

"For some months I was off my feed, as the saying goes, and what little I ate seemed to do me more harm than good. I was bothered a good deal by nervousness, too, and could get no sound sleep. Although I was able to stick on my beat, it took a my grit to do so.

"I hadn't been taking Tanlac long before I was feeling like a new man. Recently I underwent the periodic re-examination for the police force and passed with a rating of A-1, a fact which I attribute to the good Tanlac did me."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggist everywhere.—(Advertisement).

SHE IS "FULL OF PEP" THEY SAY

She is Good-Looking and Gay and is Always Ready for a Good Time

Why is a girl popular. Look around and see what a good time the good-looking ones have all the time. Men seek them out and ask them to parties, dances and entertainments. And notice that it is not the doll-face type real men like most, but the red-blooded girl with "pep" and happy good nature. Any girl who is tired and languid and has a poor complexion and dull eyes can improve her condition and be far happier if she will simply take Gude's Pepto-Mangan until she has put her blood into good condition. Red blood means "full of life" and "full of life" usually means happiness.

Try Gude's Pepto-Mangan and see how much better you feel. Doctors have used it nearly thirty years for weak, run-down people. It helps them get well. Sold in both liquid and tablet form.—adv.

Oklahoman Praises Black-Draught, Having Used It "Can Safely Say for 50 Years."

Grandfield, Okla.—One of the best known farmers of Tillman County, Mr. G. W. Tisdale, who owns and manages a wagon yard here, says:

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught—I believe I can safely say for fifty years.

"I was born and reared in Texas, Freestone County, sixty-four years ago. I have been married forty-four years. My father used Black-Draught before I was married, and gave it to us.

"For forty-four years of my married life, it has had a place on our medicine shelf, and is the only laxative, or liver medicine, we use. We use it for torpid liver, sour stomach, head ache, indigestion. . . . I don't think we could get along without it, knowing what it has done for us, and the money it has saved. It is just as good and reliable today as it was when we began its use. My boys use it and they are satisfied it's the best liver medicine they have ever used."

Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, not disagreeable to take and acts in a prompt and natural way.

So many thousands of persons have been benefited by the use of Thedford's Black-Draught, you should have no hesitation in trying this valuable of well-established remedy, for most liver and stomach disorders. NC-139b.

POLLY AND HER PALS

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Why Madge Strives to Help Both Lillian and Robert Squarin.

THAT Robert Squarin, now in my face the disapproval of his reference to stopping Lillian's work if he "ever had any authority over her," was sure when he caught himself abruptly, staring at me as if I had contradicted him orally.

But though I had plenty of food for disquieting thought at this unexpected revelation of his attitude toward Lillian's labors both in her profession and in her secret position, it was no part of mine to make any comment upon his speech. I could not agree with him, and noting his agitation, so unlike his usual gentleness and placidity—I was actually afraid to answer him in any way which he might construe as disapproval of his opinion.

He evidently was determined, however, to elicit some sort of opinion from me, and when for a long minute I remained silent, pretending to busy myself with the rearrangement of the big cluster of wild flowers which Mrs. Cosgrove's veranda always holds, he gave a little short laugh which held anything but mirth in it.

"I suppose you think I am planning to be a domestic tyrant," he said, with more than a touch of bitterness. "But can't you see that if Lillian keeps on overtaxing her strength as she has for years that she is either going to be a dead woman or a hopeless, helpless invalid? You are her best friend. I wonder that you do not see it. But you women of that temperament are all alike. You are like young racehorses—you run till you drop, and you fight any hint of a rein."

An Extra Cup of Coffee.

"There was no refuge save in nonsense. I laughed lightly as I put my head on one side, scrutinizing the flowers in front of me.

"You're not a very close observer, Robert," I said, "or you wouldn't put me in the same category with Lillian. I'm incurably indolent. Lillian said only the other day that I was infecting her with the germ. Perhaps she'll come down with a malignant attack of laziness. One never knows. Have you breakfasted?"

That he recognized my attempt to switch the subject I knew by the glimmer of a smile in his eyes, no hint of which, however, appeared in his sober face. But I halted with relief even this slight indication that his tense, sombre mood was lightening.

"No, have you?" I knew that he

EILEEN PERCY COMES

TO THE DELITE TODAY

Three characters in one may be said to be Eileen Percy's part in "Hickville o Broadway," which is being shown at the Delite today. The story is one in which a charming little village belle finds a reason to test the loyalty and strength of character of her fiancé the village druggist, who is determined to visit New York and look over the gay side of life. The girl following him to the city, adopts two disguises. She first appears there as a famous artist's model, then as a fellow woman of wealth and social distinction. In each of these disguises she meets her sweetheart from "back home," and subjects him to the acid test of flirtation. The city scenes are said to be as spirited as the village scenes are staid.

MAY M'AVOY COMES TO

THE PRINCESS TOMORROW

Manager Cagle, of the Princess, announced the showing of May McAvoy in "Morals" at the Princess Saturday.

Thousands in this city will recall the delightful story of the little English orphan, reared in a Turkish harem, whom circumstances throw into the home and life of Sir Marcus Ordeyne, a staid English author. The innocent ingenueness of Carlotta involves Sir Marcus in more embarrassing situations than one could have thought possible. He thinks he doesn't like it—but when the little nuisance goes away for a week-end he comes to the sudden realization that he loves Carlotta, a decision intensified when the master of the Turkish harem comes to London to claim her.

But the path towards the culmination of his romance is anything but smooth, a fact that provides many unexpected dramatic features to this popular, human and entertaining picture.

"THE LOST ROMANCE" AT

THE PRINCESS AGAIN TODAY

"The Lost Romance," which was displayed at the Princess last night will be shown again today, in order that those who failed to see this great picture will be afforded another opportunity of seeing it.

In the story, a young wife is on the point of deserting her husband for his best friend when the sudden disappearance of her child awakens her to the real ties that bind and a broader sense of the real meaning of life and love and romance. With the return of the child, all ends happily and the husband and wife find happiness where before there was discontent and restlessness.

Now What Did Ma Mean?

NEWS OF HARTSELLE

J. J. Ryan, of East Morgan, was at Hartsville Thursday delivering coal mined on the C. M. Ryan place. The coal found ready sale, and is of a good quality, comparing favorably with the better grades that are being handled at this point.

The following Baptist people attended the dinner given Thursday evening by the men of the Convention Bible class of the Central Baptist church to the women of the Fidelis class and F. E. L. class at the Albany chamber of commerce rooms: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Orr, S. L. Sherrill, S. E. Gibson and wife, Prof. E. L. Hays and wife, Miss Mabel Williams and Mrs. Willie Brake.

They report a most enjoyable occasion and are very enthusiastic over the reception accorded them.

Mrs. A. Polytinsky entertained Thursday with a miscellaneous shower complimentary to Miss Marie Kimbrough, a bride elect.

Mrs. Gilman H. Doss entertained the Delta Zeta club at her apartments at the W. B. Bean residence.

Something unusual is happening here today, being the auctioning off of a carload of mules brought from Memphis, Tenn. Formerly this was quite a frequent happening here. For the past two years none have been offered for sale in this manner.

The Bank of Hartsville, the oldest banking institution of the town, held their annual stockholders meeting on January 5th, electing all the old officers to their respective positions for this year, as follows: Arthur Stephenson, president; M. Pattillo, vice president; J. M. Harwood, vice president; I. V. Griffin, vice president; James Elliott Peck was promoted to the cashiership of the institution; Miss Clyde Tolleson elected bookkeeper. The bank reports a prosperous year, declaring a 12 per cent dividend to stockholders and passed a neat sum to the surplus and undivided profit fund.

A banquet to the bank's depositors was given at Hotel Hammond, 100 guests being present.

Suitable resolutions were drafted on the death of J. H. Corable and Jim O. Stephenson, members of the board of directors, the former being chairman. The following are the board of directors for the present year: J. A. Hartsville, M. Pattillo, J. M. Harwood, Arthur Stephenson, H. C. Barclay, and I. V. Griffin.

The finishing touches are being put on the new Christian church, and the membership hopes to have it completed ready for services by Sunday, the 15th. The building is of brown stone, quarried near town, and when completed will seat 1,500 people. The building has been under construction for the past three years.

Bruce Sherrill and Edrie Nichols have returned to school at Bell Buckle, Tenn.

C. H. Doss, who attended Cornell University last season, left this week to enter the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Prof. William Dubose, a graduate of Yale college, is a recent addition to the faculty of the Morgan county high school. The increased attendance made necessary the addition of another teacher.

More Prisoners Held in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 6—

When the new year began the state prisons of Alabama contained 2,026 convicts, according to figures made public by the convict bureau of the state board of control and economy.

Of the total, 774 were white men, 2,018 negro men, seven white women and 127 negro women. The net gain during the year was 476, records showing that there were 2,450 convicts at the beginning of 1920. The net gain during December was seventeen.

All white women are confined at the state prison at Speigner and are employed in the sewing room of the cotton mill. The other convicts are scattered at eleven convict camps scattered throughout the state.
